

PRINCESS ON A PILGRIMAGE™

END
Pilgrimage ...
HEAVEN!

Congratulations!
Your sin nature is gone and the curse has been removed. Enjoy your new resurrected body as you spend all eternity worshipping God!

Piles of ungraded papers cover your desk. You feel totally overwhelmed. Since you are paralyzed, you will have to forfeit your turn.

You see the effects of the Curse as kids come to school with headache & pain from broken relationships. They are angry and unwilling to focus on learning. Go back one space.

In spite of your desire to focus on the eternal aspects of your domain, you worry about your "to do" list instead of spending time with your nieces. The tyranny of the urgent wins again!
Skip a turn.

Summer mission trips redeem vacation time. Proceed 2 spaces.

You make decisions to get rid of unnecessary clutter in your apartment before you move. Move ahead 1 space.

Singleness does not stop you from loving the children God has brought into your life at Lietz + Arbor. Go forward 2 spaces.

In your fallen state, futile and darkened thinking overtakes your mind. You become prideful in your accomplishments & sink into self-reliance. Fall back two spaces.

Deciding to make a hobby productive, you knit scarves to give friends for Christmas. Move ahead one space.

In an effort to rule over your body so that it is at optimal health, you are trying to regularly eat baby spinach. Bon appetit!
Go forward one space.

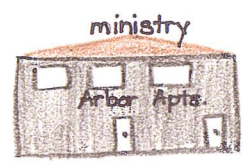

body

You seize an opportunity to pray with other Christian teachers at Lietz. Move ahead one space.

Like the Shunammite, you are fearful to accept the good gift God wants to give you (ie. husband) because it makes you vulnerable to possible pain, disappointment, & loss. You struggle with opening your hands trustingly to your sovereign father, the King. Move 3 spaces behind.

ministry

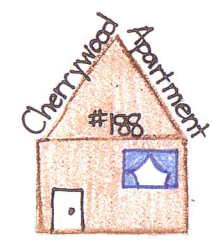

Another suspicious lump appears on your mammogram. You trust God through this trial as He sanctifies your life in the perseverance & trust you learn. Go ahead 2 spaces.

You attempt to transform the trashy weeds in front of your classroom into a garden. Progress is slow and the weeds grow back! Go forward 2 spaces, then back one.

After only dabbling with ukelele lessons, no musical ability is developed or shared with others. Lose a turn.

Your journey begins as an original masterpiece made in God's image. You begin to rule over your domains to fulfill the first purpose for which you were created as God's little replica. Go ahead 2 spaces.

START
Pilgrimage